Tobacco and Cancer

Smoking damages nearly every organ in the human body. It is linked to at least 10 different cancers, and accounts for some 30% of all cancer deaths. And it costs billions of dollars each year. Yet one in four Americans still light up. If you or someone you love uses tobacco, here's what you need to know about how tobacco kills, and how to get the help you need to quit.

What's So Bad About Tobacco?
Get the facts about what cigarettes, cigars, and smokeless tobacco do to your body, your wallet, and the health of those around you.

Great American Smokeout
The nationwide event takes place the third Thursday of November each year to encourage smokers to quit for at least one day, in hopes they will quit forever. Get more information on events in your area.

Cigarette Smokers: Are you ready to QUIT?

Consent for Research Participation

Your American Cancer Society is doing research on how the Internet can help people quit smoking. We will provide internet assistance and members who are ready to make a serious quit attempt within one or three weeks after enrolling in the project. Our research will help us learn which methods are most effective in helping smokers quit.

If you are ready to quit and decide to enroll in this project you will be randomly assigned to receive either a basic internet help program or an interactive program.

All smokers who enroll in this research must first answer a few brief questions about their smoking and other treatment information for our research. You will also need to provide your name, email address, mailing address, a telephone number where you can be occasionally reached.
